Origami Artist

Since 2004 I have worked full time as an origami artist and designer through my company Creaselighting limited. Working mainly with London's creative community, I have made origami and paper models to a variety of commissions and briefs. These include creating models for TV and Print advertising, designing characters and Logos, producing bespoke marketing materials.

I have also produced Origami instruction sets for Muji and subsequently NPW and the Science Museum. I have also written several books under different themes ranging from Origami Furniture to Dr Who Origami.
